

DETECTIVE WOOD GOES TO WARSAW ON BOMB MYSTERY

To Test Just What Is in Wall Street Explosion Story of Fritz Linde.

Detective Sergeant Clinton W. Wood, head of the industrial squad at Headquarters since the war, has received forty-five days' leave without pay, beginning yesterday, with permission to go abroad. He leaves for Warsaw within a day or two.

At Warsaw Sergt. Wood will visit Fritz Linde, the self-styled international spy, who was reported to have made a confession in Warsaw some time ago to an operative of William J. Burns, head of the Department of Justice Secret Service, that he knew about the Wall Street Bomb explosion of Sept. 16, 1920, in which thirty-eight persons lost their lives.

The story told by Linde was apparently in convincing detail until it was learned that he had told substantially the same story before he was sent abroad by Burns to pick up the individuals who plotted the outrage, but who were not known to him by name. There was reason to believe that he made little or no effort to complete his mission, but led a harum-scarum life in Poland and Russia with his expensive money, becoming involved in difficulty with the police of both countries. Nothing came of his so-called information.

The Burns Agency was in the employ of a group of wealthy Wall Street men who wanted to see the bomb setters caught and punished. Linde was in the pay of the Burns Agency on this work.

Linde, when an operative from the Department of Justice was sent to Warsaw to find out what he was doing became silent immediately after the outlines of his story were made public. Recently, it is understood, he said that Sergt. Wood was the only man in the world to whom he would talk freely because Wood had always given him a square deal "even when he didn't deserve it." The Government thereupon borrowed Sergt. Wood and is sending him abroad, in the hope that Linde may not again change his mind before the New York detectives arrive.

Unable to Live Without Mother Who Died Recently, Pair Shoot Themselves.

LONDON, May 8.—Unable to live without their mother, Countess Morosini and her sister blew out their brains as they lay side by side in bed at their Padua mansion, according to a Central News despatch from Rome to-day.

The bodies of the sisters were discovered by servants. Each clutched a revolver and physicians declared the shots had been fired simultaneously.

Both had frequently threatened suicide since the death of their mother, "our best friend," The Countess, at the time of her mother's death, attempted to shoot herself over the body but was restrained. Since that time both have been closely watched.

FIGHTER'S WIFE ASKS $25,000 A YEAR

"Willie, Jackson," Sued for Separation, Charges Extravagance.

Mrs. Pauline Tobin to-day asked Justice Gavegan in the Bronx Supreme Court that she be allowed $25,000 a year alimony and $7,500 counsel fees, pending her suit for separation from Oscar Tobin, known to the flat world as "Willie Jackson," the lightweight. She says she is twenty-two and lives at No. 1006 Intervale Avenue; that she married "Willie" Nov. 19, 1917, and that they have a daughter, Sheila, two years old.

Louis C. Hartmann, attorney for the lightweight, said that his client had now only about $4,000; that he once had a lot of money but it had been dissipated by his wife's extravagance. He said that at the trial he would produce photographs of Oscar before and after marriage, showing how he had changed through worry over Pauline's actions. Justice Gavegan reserved decision.

After the hearing Mr. Hartmann told reporters his client contemplated filing counterclaim against his wife.

BURGLARS VISIT WORLD ARTIST

Frightened Away After Forcing Door by Return of Family.

Burglars, who were evidently frightened away just as they were about to enter, jimmied a door of the apartment of Charles Gordon Saxton, an artist on the staff of The World, at No. 169 Lott Street, Flatbush, on Saturday night. It was discovered when Mr. and Mrs. Saxton returned home about midnight and he called the Snyder Avenue police station to report it.

The person replying said he was Detective Weissmuller, and his first question was whether anything had been stolen from the apartment. Mr. Saxton replied that he had not had time to make an investigation. "Well, I'll be around in the morning," was the reply. Up to 10 o'clock this morning Detective Weissmuller had not been around, nor had any one else from the station.

ARREST 2 IN DEATH OF AGED COUPLE BY GAS FOR VERMIN

Brooklyn Hotel Manager and Exterminator Man Arraigned on Charges.

Charged with "suspicion of homicide" by Detective Robert J. Kelly, acting on instructions of Medical Examiner Norris, Ely Dupuy, manager of the Hotel Margaret and annex, on Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, and Albert J. Bradiech, a professional vermin exterminator, were arraigned before Magistrate Geismar in Adams Street Police Court to-day and held in $5,000 bail each for examination on May 15. Their arraignment grew out of the deaths on April 26 in the Hotel Margaret annex of Fremont M. Jackson, an aged retired manufacturer, and his wife.

About twenty-four hours before the bodies of Jackson and his wife were found, Bradiech, who had been employed by Dupuy, fumigated the servants' quarters in the basement of the annex directly under the suite occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, case.

Bradiech thought the rooms above were vacant. Experiments proved the cyanogen gas used in the fumigation penetrated through holes in the floor to the apartment of the Jacksons. An analysis of Mr. Jackson's lungs showed the presence of cyanogen gas. The official report of the analysis was made to-day by Dr. A. O. Gettler, chief toxicologist of the Medical Examiner's office, and Dr. Norris ordered the arrests.

But Thug Goes to Sing Sing for 10 to 20 Years.

Frank Resak of No. 1451 Second Avenue pleaded guilty in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court to-day to an indictment charging him with highway robbery, in that he entered a haberdashery store at No. 2464 Broadway, April 12, shot the clerk, Morton Lipp, and ran away with $75 taken from the safe.

Four other persons told Justice Martin that Resak had robbed them. Resak said he turned to robbery when he was out of work and found it for a time an easy way of supporting himself.

Justice Martin sent him to Sing Sing for from ten to twenty years.

CIGARETTE USERS TO SAVE $60,000,000

Rate War by Manufacturers Benefits Retailers, Declares C. A. Whelan.

The public will pay $60,000,000 less for cigarettes this year as the result of the recent cut rate war in the tobacco trade, according to C. A. Whelan, President of the United Cigar Stores Company. At the same time Mr. Whelan declares that the retailer of tobacco will enjoy one of the most prosperous years in the history of that trade. The reason for that is the restoration of the fair profit which was virtually wiped out last year because of the war among manufacturers of cigarettes for supremacy which Mr. Whelan says was the "biggest fight in the tobacco business in the last twenty years."

FIREBUG PUTS 17 CHILDREN IN PERIL

Man Whose Wife Lives in Menaced Tenement Seized as Suspect.

Seventeen children of six families living at No. 314 McDougal Street, Brooklyn, were endangered by a fire of incendiary origin early to-day. One of the children choked from the smoke, awoke and began crying. Its mother shouted out the window.

George Brown of Glendale and Lester Henkenson of No. 3 Aberdeen Street, who were changing an auto tire a short distance away, ran into the cellar and found two bags of rubbish blazing. They quickly put out the flames.

They say they met a man running from the cellar. Policemen in a department automobile saw they saw a man running and arrested George Jockers, twenty-nine, a baker, living at No. 516 Elton Street, East New York. Jockers denied knowing anything about the fire, but was held. The police say his wife lives on the second floor of the house where the fire occurred with her mother. She said she married Jockers in January of last year and had to leave him in September.
